

HEADTEACHER'S MESSAGE

Dear parents/carers

We continue to receive good feedback on our new home learning policy from you. We can see from weekly tests that the impact on children's learning is good. More and more children are taking responsibility for their own HARD WORK by making sure they complete their practice at home daily. For this reason we are not running home learning club in the spring term. Your support to make sure they sit down to do their learning is all that is needed; if they are really stuck or resistant - explain this to their teacher. Our school value of hard work relies on children being able to focus and persist at their practice. We know they can do this so let us know how we can help get this routine established at home if needed.

Science Global Learning News

Switch off Fortnight 20th November to 3rd December 2017:

Children will be learning about the importance of responsible electricity consumption and will be experiencing a lesson during the Switch Off Fortnight with no interactive white board. They will learn about the Global Goals, in particular the goal Responsible Consumption, and learn about how using electricity in excess of what you need can negatively impact our world. Children will be encouraged to reduce the amount of electricity which is wasted both in school and at home.

How can you get involved at home?

Here are some of the ideas to try at home.

1. Boil enough water required for your tea/coffee.
2. Switch off lights as you leave the room.
3. Keep warm wearing jumpers rather than increasing the temperature on the thermostat.
